ABSTRACT

This workbook contains reading and writing lessons for North American adults learning English as a second language. It can also be used with English-speaking adults who need to improve basic literacy skills. The vocabulary, reading, and writing exercises in the book were developed to meet essential survival and emergency English needs. The workbook is organized into two parts. The first part contains 25 lessons on everyday life situations. Topics covered include food, telling time, money, shopping, cooking, calendars, families, measuring, maps, transportation, asking questions, using the telephone, household items, mail, describing people, personal health, clothing, jobs, checks and money orders, housing, paying bills, and the seasons. Practice exercises such as fill in the blanks and writing drills are contained in these lessons, and lessons are illustrated with line drawings. The second part of the workbook contains 50 lessons for practice in pronunciation of English sounds. Words and sentences in this part are to be listened to, read, and said by the student. (The workbook is designed to be used with A Handbook for Tutors of Non-English Speaking Students.) (KC)

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Martha A. Lane is Coordinator of Lutheran Church Women's Volunteer Reading Aides Program. She is responsible for LCW's adult literacy and ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) efforts in Canada and the United States. She has been involved in ESOL work since 1969 and has taught English to refugees, migrants and immigrants in a variety of community ESOL and literacy programs. She has written extensively for adult new readers and new English speakers.

Her interest in both language and writing stems from college days. She majored in French at Whitworth College, Spokane, Washington, and holds a masters degree in magazine journalism from Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The collection of pronunciation lessons titled Some Sounds of English is reprinted here in its entirety, with the permission of Lutheran Church Women, 2900 Queen Lane, Philadelphia, Pa. 19129.

PREFACE

The Emergency English Workbook contains reading and writing lessons for North American adults learning English as a new language. English-speaking adults needing to improve basic literacy skills also will find this workbook helpful. The vocabulary and reading and writing exercises have been chosen to meet essential survival and emergency English needs.

It is recommended that this workbook be used in conjunction with Emergency English: A Handbook for Tutors. The handbook contains lesson outlines, information about characteristics of the English language, special pronunciation lessons and other material useful to professional teachers and volunteer tutors alike.

It would be impossible to accurately list everyone who has influenced the content and shape of The Emergency English Workbook. I thank God for the hundreds of students and teachers and volunteer tutors who field-tested these materials and provided so many practical suggestions for improvement.

I am especially grateful to the following persons for their love, encouragement and many hours of hard, hard work:

- Richard P. Auletta, linguistic consultant;
- Michael Irving, Sidney Anne Haig and Sue Lane Talley, illustrators;
- Norma Patel, Karen Dahmer and Patricia Reitz Gaul, editorial consultants;
- Marlyn DeWitt, Mary Dougherty and Karen Dahmer, lay-out and proofreading;
- Karen Neithercott, typist;
- Lutheran Church Women, who saw the need and provided the funding and opportunities necessary for developing this workbook;
- the Center for Literacy, for testing the materials in a pilot project.

May these materials prove useful and enjoyable to you. Please share your comments, suggestions and questions about the materials. Write to:

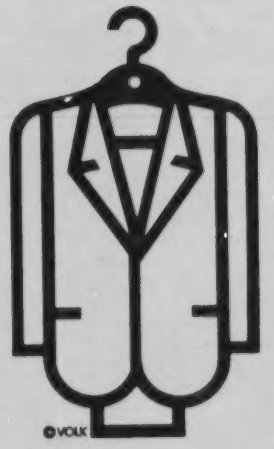
You can buy clothes in many stores. There are shops for women's clothes. There are shops for men's clothes. There are shoe stores. You can also buy clothes in department stores. (A department store is a big store which sells many things.) In the department store, ask for men's clothing, women's clothing, children's clothing, or shoes. For example:
"Where are women's clothes?"
"On the first floor."
"Thank you."

Please Study

Sizes



Clothes come in many sizes.
There are sizes for children.
There are sizes for women and sizes for men.

Clothes for very young children use ages for numbers:
6 mos. means it is for a 6-month-old baby.
12 mos. means it is for a 1-year-old.
4 yrs. means it is for a 4-year-old.

Women's clothes use different numbers for different things.
Women's coats go from about size 6 to 16. Size 6 is small.
Size 10 is about average. Size 16 is large.

Women's blouses are numbered from about size 8 to 16.
Women's blouses also are numbered from about 32 to 40.
A size 14 blouse is about the same as a size 34 or 36 blouse.
Women's skirts and slacks go from about size 8 to 18.

Men's coats go from about size 36 to 48.
Men's shirts go from about size 14 to 17.
Men's slacks (pants/trousers) go from about waist size 28 to waist size 44.

Men's and women's shoes go from about size 5 to 12.
But a men's size 10 is much bigger than a women's size 10.
Sometimes the size of clothes are marked with a letter.
S means small; M means medium; L means large and XL means extra-large.

mos. = months
yrs. = years

This is the Andrews family.
The man is John Andrews.
The woman is Mary Andrews.
The baby is Melinda Andrews.

John was a welder in a factory.
But last week the factory closed.
Now he must look for a new job.

Mary had a job. She was a teacher.
But now she wants to stay home and take care of Melinda.

John does 5 things to find a job:

1. He looks for help-wanted signs in store windows near his home.
2. He asks friends if they know of any jobs.
3. He reads the help-wanted ads in the newspaper.
4. He visits an employment office.
5. He asks Mary to help him plan what to do.

John needs to work 40 hours a week.
He is looking for a full-time job.
He sees 2 signs in store windows. But both are for part-time work.

One friend tells him of a job at DeWitt's Diner (a restaurant). The diner needs a cook. But John has no experience as a cook. So he does not go to the diner.

Every night Mary and John read the want ads. They find 3 ads that sound OK.

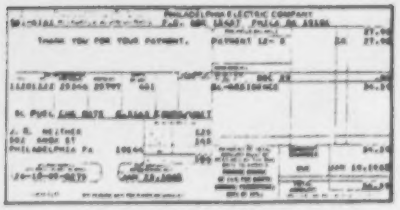
paper
a piece of paper



a bill

A bill is a piece of paper.
It comes in the mail.
It tells how much and when to pay for something.

Most families get many bills.
They get bills for heat, light, water and the telephone.
They get bills for other things.

Most bills come every month.
Some bills come every 2 months.
It is important to pay bills as soon as possible.

Look at the telephone bill on this page. It is Ann Martin's bill. It is for using the telephone from December 23 to January 22. Ann must pay the bill by January 22.
She must pay $30.15.

DUE = when to pay
TOTAL AMOUNT DUE = how much to pay

Ann can send her money by mail or go to the telephone office.

You can pay most bills by either mail or in person.
It will save you time to pay bills by mail.

To pay by mail, send a check or money order.
And send the part of the bill that says SEND THIS WITH YOUR PAYMENT.
Send the bill in the company envelope.
Put a stamp on the envelope before you mail it.

Never send cash in the mail. Always send a check or money order.

To pay in person, take your money and the entire bill (all parts) to the company office.

Ann lives in an apartment.
She budgets her money.
"Budget" means she studies how much money she needs.
Then she studies how to have enough money.

Ann brings home $800 a month from her job.
She pays $250 a month rent for the apartment.
She also has to pay for heat, lights, and the telephone.

Ann also has to buy food, clothes, medicine and gifts.
Every week Ann gives money to her church.
Every month Ann puts some money in the bank.

The money Ann gets is income. Her income is $800 a month.
The money she spends is expenses.

Every month Ann writes down her income and expenses:

Month June, 1982

Some Sounds of English

These pronunciation lessons teach and reinforce some of the most common sounds of English. Common words and regular spelling patterns are used as much as possible.

The student always reads in these pronunciation lessons. In the Listen and Read section, the student listens and reads as the teacher (or a tape-recorded voice) models the sound in isolation, then quickly reads words containing the sound.

In the Listen, Read, Say section, each sound and the words containing the sound are modeled twice in quick succession, then repeated twice by the student.

Beginning with Lesson 46, some "tongue twisters" are introduced. Lesson 50, a review lesson, is composed completely of tongue twisters.

Listen carefully, practice hard, but have fun!
